

“SYMPOSIUM SCIENCE, SOCIETY AND VALUES”

June 17, Salle d’Agora, University of Bordeaux

8.30 am, welcome

9. am: introduction to the symposium (Andreas Bikfalvi, Bordeaux, France; Pierre Vermeren, Paris, France)

9.15 am On the Moralization of Science (Yves Gingras, Montreal, Canada)

9.50 am A general assessment of the ideological penetration in the Academia (Jean-François Braunstein, Paris, France)

10h25 am The indigenous knowledge vs. science debate and the rise of postmodernism in New Zealand (Peter Schwerdtfeger, Auckland, New Zealand, via Zoom)

11.00 coffee break

11.15 am 'From Worriers to Warriors: The Rise of Women in Science and Society' (Corey J Clark, Philadelphia, USA)

11.50 pm 'Language as ideology' or the rhetoric of vagueness (Jean Szlamowicz, Dijon, France)

12.30 Lunch break

2 pm The notion of truth in the biomedical sciences (Andreas Bikfalvi, Bordeaux, France)

2.35 pm When ideology trumps evolutionary biology (Luana Maroja, Williamstown, USA)

3.10 pm Medical pharmacology, an unexpected turn of events
(Joseph Ciccolini, Marseille, France)

3.45 pm Coffee break

4. pm “The origine of COVID-19” debate (Alina Chan, Boston, USA via Zoom)

4.35 pm Powerful ideas in global health, humanitarianism and philanthropy (Patricia Schwerdtle, Heidelberg, Germany)

5.10 pm Oncology and ideological penetration (Jacques Robert, Bordeaux, France)

5.45 pm Concluding Remarks (Andreas Bikfalvi, Bordeaux, France)